Same—A House bill for the benefit of Mrs. Jenny Stearns, rejected.

Same—A House bill for the benefit of Mrs. Minna Grauman, rejected.

Same—A House bill for the benefit of Susan E. Myers, rejected.

Mr. GOODLOE—Finance—A bill to amend the charter of the Louisville and Nashville railroad; [very acquiescent for the purposes of the road, coal mines and timber lands and stone quarries, and city of Louisville and counties that are stockholders may sell their stock to road or others, for the redemption of their county bonds.]

Mr. WRIGHT opposed the 2d section of the bill allowing Louisville and counties to sell their stock to redeem their bonds, briefly.

Mr. SAMPSON replied briefly in explanation of the bill, he thought Mr. WRIGHT was mistaken in the extent of the power given in the section.

Mr. WHITAKER offered an amendment requiring the question of sale of city or county stock to be submitted to a vote of the people, before the sale shall be made, and a majority voting for the sale.

Mr. GOODLOE made a few remarks in explanation of, and support of the bill, and replied to Mr. WRIGHT.

Mr. WRIGHT replied to Mr. GOODLOE in a few humorous remarks, and again opposed the 2d section of the bill.

Mr. WHITAKER advocated his amendment, and also favored the general principles of the bill.

The amendment was adopted and the bill passed.

Mr. RIFE—Religion—A House bill to amend the act to amend the charter of the Board of the Education of Kentucky Annual Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, passed.

A PETITION.

Was presented by Mr. WHITAKER, and referred to the Finance committee.

LEAVE TO BRING IN BILLS.

Leave was given to bring in the following bills, which were appropriately referred:

Mr. MALLORY—A bill to amend the charter of the Louisville turnpike road company.

Same—A bill for the benefit of the heirs of Isaac Stewart, deceased.

Mr. FISK—A bill to incorporate the Kentucky Central Railroad Company.

Mr. McHENRY—A bill for the benefit of the Muhlenberg county court.

Same—A bill for the benefit of W. S. Miller, sheriff of Ohio county.

Mr. FISK—A bill to legalize the acts of John Ellis, school commissioner of Kenton county.

ORDERS OF THE DAY.

The House bills on the clerk's table were taken up, read the first and second times, and referred to appropriate committees.

A House bill to allow the Warren county court to change the old Nashville road was taken up, read a third time, and passed.

A Senate bill to authorize justices of the peace to take acknowledgment of deeds and other instruments of writing, was taken up.

Mr. FISK briefly advocated the passage of the bill. He took the ground that there was no good reason why justices of the peace should not attend to this sort of business as well as any other officer, justices of the peace are generally just as they are called, they are men of intelligence and prominence in their neighborhoods. He also proceeded to show some cogent and pregnant reasons for the passage of some such law as this.

Mr. MALLORY replied to Mr. FISK, and opposed the bill. He replied particularly to Mr. FISK's remarks in relation to the intelligence of the justices of the peace. He differed in toto with Mr. F. in his estimate of those generally filling the office. He would not increase their powers, but would curtail them. He gave a humorous anecdote of a decision of a justice to illustrate his view of the impolicy of the passage of this bill.

Mr. BOTTS made a few remarks on the bill, he doubted the policy of it. He thought it unnecessary and would lead to litigation.

Mr. FISK continued the debate on this bill urging its passage at considerable length. He replied to Mr. MALLORY's remarks in relation to the intelligence and qualifications for office of justice of the peace.

Mr. CLEVELAND replied to Mr. FISK, and opposed the bill in a few remarks. He did not think this power should be conferred on justices of the peace.

Mr. WRIGHT briefly advocated the passage of the bill, he thought it an important measure to be adopted for the convenience of the people of the State. He thought that justices of the peace were fully competent to perform the duties required in this bill.

Mr. WHITAKER opposed the bill, he thought it impolitic to confer this power on justices of the peace.

The bill was rejected.

MESSAGE FROM H. R.

Was received by Mr. LYNE, Clerk, announcing the passage of joint resolutions by that House, entitled, "Resolutions for the benefit of the 4th and 6th regiments of Kentucky Cavalry."

The said resolution was then taken up. [For resolutions see House proceedings.] Mr. SAMPSON moved that the resolution be referred to the committee on Finance with instructions to report to-morrow: carried.

ORDERS RESUMED.

A Senate bill in relation to the office and duties of Attorney General, [requires additional duties of the Attorney General, and gives him fees to be taxed as costs and collected from those whom the State recovers judgments against.]

Mr. SAMPSON explained the bill. He briefly and earnestly advocated its passage. The bill was then passed.

A Senate bill to amend sec. 221, of the Civil Code of Practice, passed.

A Senate bill to amend the revenue laws, [this is a long bill, and if it becomes a law will be published in full in our paper.]

Mr. BOTTS offered an amendment, "that a clerk failing to issue an execution after 12 months, on a replevin bond, he may defend his failure to do so, by showing that such execution could not have been collected, if issued," adopted.

The bill was then ordered to a third reading, the reading dispensed with and the bill passed.

Hays and S. L. Robertson, have taken said oath, and filed their certificate, and that James M. Lancaster, and John N. Norton, have not filed the certificate of the oath, if they have taken it. Therefore be it Resolved, That the further services of the said James M. Lancaster, and John N. Norton be dispensed with for the remainder of the present session of this Legislature.

Therefore,

Resolved, That the Auditor be and he is hereby directed to draw his warrant upon the Treasurer for the sum of $15,000, in favor of Capt. Allen, or such paymaster as may be designated to pay off said gallant men of the aforesaid 4th and 6th regiments of Kentucky Cavalry. The sum being advanced to the paymaster for the use of the Government, and to be paid to said soldiers upon their muster rolls for pay as prescribed by the rules and regulations of the War Department.

2. This resolution to apply only to those of said regiments who have not received the bounty for re-enlistment, and to take effect from its passage.

PRIVILEGED MOTION.

Mr. ALF. ALLEN moved to reconsider the vote rejecting the bill to create the 15th Judicial District: motion entered.

SPECIAL ORDER.

An act empowering the Governor to raise a force for the defense of the State: several amendments were offered.

Considerable debate ensued upon these amendments in which Messrs. HAWKINS, BENTON, SHANKLIN, THOMPSON and LAUCK took part.

Before action the House adjourned.

[Special Correspondence of the Cin. Times.]

Letter From Louisiana.

CAMP NEAR FORT JACKSON, New Year's Day, 1864.

Since "the cruel war" began "Yours Truly" like most other army correspondents, has had a checkered life, learned to eat hard tack and sleep in a plow furrow, regardless of night-mare. Without attempting to recount the hard things he has gone through, he claims to have seen the elephant in all his huge proportions, and to have the assertion taken at its face without discount or grace. But of all miserable miseries, the last forty-eight hours has been the climax. When we landed in this tangled cotton wood bottom and pitched our tents, we, that are our mess, with a prudene and forethought worthy of the Commander-in-Chief, began to prepare for emergencies. I may as well tell you that our mess consists of the tall captain, the stout captain, and the undersized. Two tents placed together, one for dining purpose and the other to sleep in, seemed to promise some comfort. But like the universal Yankee nation "yours truly" was not satisfied; and thereupon he struck the "Sanitary Commission," in the person of an "intelligent and reliable contraband" who was acting ward-master, for some bedticks. Sanitary Commission was amiable, medical staff proffered one of those vehicles

"Whose path of glory leads to the Grave," and forthwith we had a fourteen mile ambulance ride in pursuit of rice straw for the beds, not forgetting to call at an Orange Grove for a sack of oranges.

In a secluded nook of the grove beneath the branches of a magnificent lemon, were two new made graves. It needed not the rough piece of "cracker-box" at the head to tell us that they were of those "Whose business 'tis to die."

A more delightful place of repose after life's fitful dream could not be desired. The air was fragrant with lemon, orange and citron. Mockingbirds perched on the head board to warble out their solemn requiem. But no holy hands were spread over the soldier's grave, nor was the turf watered with parental tears. Nay, even the loved ones at home may be rejoicing in the manly strength of their soldier boy, ignorant that a traitor's bullet has laid him beneath.

An old building furnished bricks, the mud made capital mortar, and without more ado a chimney was extemporized. You cannot tell the feeling of satisfaction with which we regarded these arrangements at least we had good beds, and something to keep warm with. But alas, how soon are human hopes dissipated. For that same night after the moon had shone for hours in cloudless splendor, without any provocation whatever, the wind blew, the thunder roared, and the rain came down in a deluge that threatened to put us in the condition of the "Scriptural House" that was built on the sand. The waters quickly raised, and we sang

"I'm afloat, I'm afloat."

"Cloud-compelling Jove" had evidently determined on giving us a soaking. All hands could do no more than prevent the tent from sailing through the air like a Connecticut witch on her broom-stick. Like the Knickerbockers of the great town Schaghticoke, we were constrained to lay stone on our backs to keep them from being blown away. And as all this misery needed a climax, our cook took sick and could not leave his quarters. Now, here was pretty do. Fat Captain made a fire, which the rain put out every five minutes. Yours truly extemporized some biscuits, and fried a few eggs at four bits a dozen. And thus we have lived for two days. Draining our habitation with canals enough to furnish a respectable Dutch city; climbing tent-poles to keep out of the rising waters, and, as the winds abated, making coffee to keep our spirits up. The absence of "lovely woman" was all that prevented us from enacting the tragedy of the "Last Man." (See Beard's) picture in the Burnet House rotunda.)

But all things must have an end, and so has the spree of old Boreas; for we much respect that worthy gentleman of being on a bender. Had he waited until to-day, we would not have been so much surprised, remembering how prone our fellow citizens in civil life are to get obfuscated with the social duties of the day and chicken salad. But we have no authority to accuse the celestial duties of making "New Year's calls," and we dispense all metaphysical disquisitions, therefore we take leave of the subject, and shall try to dry our garments and attain unto some little comfort, albeit we are as mad as a nursery-maid with a new bonnet when it rains on her "Sunday out."

The first of January—New Year's day—instead of spending it as we were wont to do in days of peace, when "baked turkey and choice Madeira" abounded on tables over which our lady friends presided in all the charms of dowered silk and perfect toilet, here we are so deep in the mud that alligator boots fail to protect us, and render life unendurable, and like all the rest of mankind, we are prone to get the blues and turn over a new leaf. Every body turns over a new leaf on the first of January, just as they get a new diary. Men swear off drinking, gaming and extravagance; women vow against new dresses, bonnets and all the frivolities that flesh is heir to.

But sad is the record. How many new leaves stay turned? How many good resolutions are carried out in practice? The first of January finds us repentant, and the last in the same gall of bitterness and bonds of iniquity. It is said that Tophet, we use the polite alias, is paved with good intentions. If so, what a busy time Old Cloven Foot's pavers have at this season. We will be in fashion, and make good resolutions, resolve to hear no more of revolve and tattoo, to eschew "hard tack" and leave camps to the nouveau militaire. But after all, may not the next New Year's day find us sitting in the same cot, with the same miseries, concocting army letters. Who can tell what is hid in the womb of futurity? But we feel better, for Elliot our cook is convalescent, announces supper, and a cup of good coffee has charms to soothe even an army correspondent.

There are no news here, but to-morrow we shall have a boat with the decision of Gen. Banks on the court martial that tried the insurgent corps de Afrique, and before you read this we shall no doubt have seen, and perhaps taken part in the horrible tragedy of their execution, and then off goes the 83d Ohio, with whom the subscriber is quartered, to Texas.

Much Attached to the Marriage State.

It is usually considered a note worthy circumstance for a man or woman to have been married three times; but of old this number would have been thought little of. St. Jerome mentions a widow that married her twenty second husband, who in his turn had been married to twenty wives—surely an experienced couple! A woman named Elizabeth Mass, who died at Florence, in 1768, had been married to seven husbands, all of whom she outlived. She married the last of the seven at the age of seventy. When on her death-bed, she recalled the good and bad points in each of her husbands, and having impartially weighed them in the balance, she singled out her fifth spouse as the favorite, and desired that her remains might be interred near his. The death of a soldier is recorded, in 1784, who had had five wives; and his widow, aged ninety, wept over the grave of her fourth husband. The writer who mentioned these facts, naively added, "the said soldier was much attached to the marriage state." There is an account of a gentleman who had been married to four wives, and who lived to be one hundred and fifteen years old. When he died he left twenty-three children alive and well, some of the said children being from three to four score. A gentleman died at Bordeaux, in 1772, who had been married sixteen times.

In July, 1768, a couple were living in Essex who had been married eighty-one years, the husband being one hundred and seven, and the wife one hundred and three years of age. At the Church of St. Clement Danes, in 1772, a woman of eighty-five was married to her sixth husband.

[Phrenological Journal.]

The custom of employing ladies as clerks in the public departments at Washington is meeting with increased favor. It is said that, generally speaking, they write more correctly than the men; and, as they receive much smaller salaries, the gain to the Government is considerable.

THE COMMONWEALTH. FRANKFORT.

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 20, 1864.

The Governor's Mansion will be open for the reception of visitors every Monday evening during the session of the Legislature, from 8 to 11 o'clock.

The United States Senate has adopted a joint resolution of thanks to Major Generals Hooker, Meade, Banks, Burnside, Howard, and the officers and men under their command.

These gallant officers deserve an expression of the admiration and thanks of the Nation. But the motive which instigated the adoption of the resolution is the fact that it was brought up, is as mean and contemptible as can well be. This resolution was planned and gotten up, not so much to honor the meritorious officers whose names are mentioned, as it was to neglect McClellan.

Although the military career of these officers has been such as to win the admiration of the Nation, the military career of Geo. B. McClellan, out short as it was by evil influences, will occupy a larger share in the history of this revolution than that of all these officers combined.

The little souls in Washington may attempt to put him in the background, but their envious and partisan efforts will fail. He has written some pages in American history which will not be forgotten.

Middleton's Portraits.

Mr. Charles Southwick is now in our city, and is agent for the sale of the portraits of Washington and wife, Jackson, Webster, and Clay. He will, for a few days, exhibit specimens in the Committee room adjoining the Senate Chamber, and also at the Capital Hotel. We extract the following description of these portraits from the Louisville Journal:

The Washington portrait is from Stuart's celebrated likeness, painted in 1794, of cabinet size, on canvas and oval stretcher. The companion portrait is copied from an original, also by Stuart. The Jackson portrait is from Kellogg's painting, taken for the Democracy of Ohio; Webster's is from a colored photograph, and remarkably faithful; and that of Henry Clay is taken from the last photograph of the distinguished statesman, executed in Baltimore. These are the commencement of a series which will be invaluable to every patriot, and the very low price at which they can be afforded will secure a very great demand for them. They are executed by a process of chromo-stone painting, in oil colors, and cannot be distinguished from a first-class portrait by brush. The merits of these works will commend them to the general attention of our citizens. We have seen the Stuart painting in the Boston Athenaeum frequently, and we regard this as one of the most faithful copies ever given to the public. That of Jackson is a wonderful "counterfeit presentation" of that distinguished man, the massive head of Webster and the expression of the face look life-like, while the portrait of our loved and lost Kentucky statesman, Henry Clay, will be treasured because it shows him as he was near the close of his life, when the fire of his eye was undimmed, but the general contour had been mellowed down by the touches of time upon his cherished features. Every parlor in the land should contain these beautiful memorials of the wisdom, patriotism, virtue, intelligence, and eloquence of the past.

Honor to the 21st Kentucky Infantry.

It will be seen, says the Louisville Journal, by the subjoined telegram that three-fourths of the 21st Kentucky Infantry, Col. S. W. Price, commanding, have re-enlisted as veterans. The time and circumstances of the re-enlistment show, in a striking manner, the bravery and patriotism of these warlike soldiers. The regiment participated with great gallantry in the recent battle of Chattanooga, immediately after which it was ordered to Knoxville, and when it had nearly reached that place was ordered back to near Chattanooga. This march of two hundred and fifty miles was accomplished without tents, through rain and mud, on short rations, and in many instances without shoes. Such arduous duties are well calculated to dampen the ardor of military enthusiasm; not so, however, with the heroic 21st. Immediately after their long, wearying march, the proposition to re-enlist was made to them, and soon three-fourths of them enrolled their names for three years additional service. In a day or two these veterans will pass through our city en route for their homes. They are entitled to universal honor.

FRANKFORT, KY., JAN. 17, 1864.

To Col. S. W. Price, Com. 21st Ky. Infantry: In behalf of the State of Kentucky, I thank the gallant men of the 21st for re-enlisting as veterans. They are an honor to the State.

[Signed,] THOS. E. BRAMLETTE, Governor of Kentucky.

A DOPPEL—On the night of the 2d instant, the bodies of six deceased Federal prisoners were deposited in the dead-house of the hospital at Richmond, to await the coming of the undertakers with coffins. The next morning one of the bodies was gone, and the plank knocked from the house showed the way the ghost went. He had been "playing possum," and was laid out among the dead only to get up and run away when nobody was looking.

The latest intelligence from India is that the revolt has assumed alarming proportions, and that the British troops have met with heavy losses.

Mr. Fenton, of New York, has introduced a bill in Congress for the payment of the claims of loyal citizens for losses and destruction of property by the acts of the troops of the United States, during the present rebellion.

AUDITOR'S OFFICE, JANUARY 19, 1864.

Members Kentucky Legislature:

Having bills passed relieving Sheriffs in any way, or clerks, are requested to obtain from Secretary of State copies of said bills, as I cannot take notice thereof till I am furnished with an official copy.

W. T. SAMUELS, Auditor.
Jan. 20, 1864-3t.

Logic.—The local Editor of the Troy Whig is responsible for this: "Snow has given us an advantage over the present rebellion, because it has contributed to make up the preponderance of the loyal population. And how? Snow is supposed to be fructifying only to soils, but it is otherwise. Imprimis: Snow makes sleighing, and sleighing especially if it be good, induces an immense amount of close vis-a-vis and tongue-to-ear social intercourse between the young and the not so young of the sexes. Social intercourse, compact and fervid, as you find it in a cutter, leads to small talk; small talk induces love; love facilitates marriage. Ergo: As it is supposed that population, anywhere out of France, can only emanate from wedlock, and as sleighing manufactured from snow induces early and later marriages, we insist that to snow, next to emigration, is the North largely indebted for that preponderance of population which enables it to replace again and again the half millions withdrawn at stated periods from the field."

During the debate on the Conscription Act, the fact transpired that the term of service of only 20,000 men in all our armies expires before the 1st of July next.

ROMANTIC.—Alluding to the will of Mr. James H. Roosevelt, a millionaire bachelor of New York city, lately deceased, the New York correspondent of the Boston Post writes:

"The most curious part of the affair is that the only legatee under the will (and the sole executrix) is a lady to whom the lamented had been several times betrothed: once even so nearly married that the cards were out, the guests assembled, and the expected bride on hand, en route, but the necessary bridegroom did not come to time. The reason why, never transpired, but the couple made it up again. Still the happy day was postponed—as it turned out ad eternum—but the inconsolable fiancee was remembered to the tune of five thousand a year for life and the profitable berth of executrix of a million dollar estate. Such is life!" The bulk of the property was bequeathed to found a hospital in New York.

The 9th New Hampshire Regiment under command of Col. Titus, has marching orders, and was expected to leave on yesterday evening en route for Knoxville. The 40th Kentucky Cavalry, under command of Col. True, is at this place to remain on duty.

Our community will part with Col. Titus, with great regret, who has been in command at this post for several months, and has so discharged his duties as to command the respect and confidence of our citizens. The general good behavior of that portion of his regiment, which has been stationed here, has been the subject of general remark. The best wishes of our community will attend Col. Titus and his command, wherever the public service may call them.

[Paris Citizen.]

SCIENCE.—We are pained to learn, says the Louisville Democrat, January 15th, that Geo. Spillman, well known to our citizens as a young man of worth, and who was for a long time connected with the Louisville and Frankfort railroad company as one of their clerks at the depot, committed suicide at his residence on Breckinridge street, Wednesday night. While laboring, it is supposed, under a fit of insanity he placed a pistol to his head and deliberately shot himself, inflicting a wound from which he died in a few hours. No cause can be assigned for the rash act.

TOBACCO SALES.—The Louisville Democrat, of January 15th, says: The average of the sale at Phelps, Caldwell & Co.'s yesterday morning, was $21.21 for good tobacco and $10.35 for lugs. One crop of Mr. A. Bell, of Christian county, averaged the handsome sum of $27.35, sold on account of Messrs. McClellan & McComb. We think this speaks pretty well for Christian county.

The ice having united Johnson's Island to the shore, it has been feared the rebel officers might make an attempt to escape, and a large force has been sent there to prevent any such attempt.

The army at Chattanooga is now, for almost the first time since the first Chickamauga battle, on full rations. Stores are rapidly accumulating. A new steamer is about, with uninterrupted communication.

The main body of the rebel army of Virginia is camped between Gordonsville and Orange Court-house.

The rigors of the Southern conscription may be inferred from the fact that the Richmond Enquirer endeavors to moderate the zeal of the rebel Congress, and urges them to leave at least the producers, who are old and not able-bodied, out of the army.

Gen. Thomas has issued an order assessing thirty thousand dollars on rebel sympathizers living within ten miles of the recent murder of three soldiers near Mulberry, Tenn., the money to be divided between the families of the soldiers killed.

A THEATRICAL DODGE.—A new agency office is being opened in Paris, having a very novel object in view. It is instituted for the supplying managers of theatres with a sufficient number of people to form a tolerable crowd outside the doors, and who are to appear pushing as if anxious to get in, but which difficulty is never overcome till they have attracted, by the eagerness to enter, others to do the same; then they will go in and finish off the remainder of their duty by applauding everything that is done. The office will have various kinds of "mobs" for hire, according to the kind of place they are to attend. For concerts, or a good class of theatre, they will supply gentlemen in "full dress."

Mules in Central America.

One of the most striking characteristics of the mule, is his aversion to the ass, and the pride he takes in his relationship to the horse; which instincts are met by obtrusiveness in the ass, and by indifference to the mule. If an ass at any time—urged by the vanity peculiar to its race as related to the mule—happens to fall in with a drove of mules, he will, in all probability, be kicked and lamed by his proud relatives. A horse, on the contrary, takes a distinguished position in a drove of the mules. The latter crowd around him, and follow his movements, exhibiting a violent jealousy, each trying to stand nearest his high bred relative. This instinct is employed to keep together a drove of mules; on a journey or at pleasure, by putting a mare to the drove, with a bell around her neck, and called a bell-mare. This animal is led day and night by a cord, and the whole drove is thus kept under control, and will not leave their queen. It is therefore very difficult to separate the drove.

The man who leads the mares instructed, in case of an attack from the Indians, to leap upon the back of the animal and take refuge in the wagon encampment, whether the drove is sure to follow him. Even if the Indians succeed in separating any from the drove, they find it difficult to carry them off. The animals incessantly attempt to turn back, and the travelers are thus enabled to overtake the robbers and recover the stolen animals. The Indians, in consequence, use every means to get possession of the mare; and if they succeed in this, the whole drove is lost to their owners. If several horses are in a drove of mules, the danger is that the latter becomes dispersed; and this is the reason that, in these journeys, saddles, horses are not allowed to go loose, but are led by a cord. [Frobed.]

What is chronology, Mr. W.? Well it is a sort of account current with Father Time.

Proclamation by the Governor.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, FRANKFORT, KY., Jan. 4, 1864.

The frequent outrages perpetrated in various parts of the State by lawless bands of marauders, can in a large degree be traced to the active aid of rebel sympathizers in our midst, or their neglect to furnish to Military Commandants the information, in their possession, which would lead to the defeat and capture of such marauders.

Sympathizers with the rebellion who, while enjoying protection from the Government, abuse the leniency extended to them by concealing the movements of rebel guerrillas, by giving them information, affording them shelter, supplying them with provisions, and otherwise encouraging and fomenting private raids, are in criminal complicity with all the outrages perpetrated by the marauders whom they secretly countenance.

It is in the power of persons whose sympathies are with the rebellion to prevent guerrilla raids, almost invariably, by furnishing to Military Officers of the United States or State of Kentucky, the information which experience has proved them to be, as a general thing, possessed of.

If all would unite, as is their duty, in putting down guerrillas, we should soon cease to be troubled with their raids. A neglect to afford all assistance and information which may aid in defeating the designs of marauding parties, can but be construed as a culpable and active assistance to our enemies.

I, therefore, request that the various Military Commandants in the State of Kentucky will, in every instance where a loyal citizen is taken off by bands of guerrillas, immediately arrest at least five of the most prominent and active rebel sympathizers in the vicinity of such outrages for every loyal man taken by guerrillas. These sympathizers should be held as hostages for the safe and speedy return of the loyal citizens. Where there are disloyal relatives of guerrillas, they should be the chief sufferers. Let them learn that if they refuse to exert themselves actively for the assistance and protection of the loyal, they must expect to reap the just fruits of their complicity with the enemies of our State and people.

DR. JOHN BULL'S COMPOUND CEDRON BITTERS.

The Latest and Most Important Discovery of the 19th Century.

NO MAN'S name is more intimately connected with the history of the Materia Medica of the United States, or more favorably known as a pioneer in Medical discovery, than that of Dr. JOHN BULL, of Louisville, Ky. His inimitable preparation of Sarsaparilla, has long stood at the head of the various compounds of that valuable drug. His COMPOUND PECTORAL or WILD CHERRY, has become a household word throughout the West and South; and his Worm Lozenges, in less than a year after their introduction, acquired a reputation as wide spread as the continent of North America. But the crowning glory of his life remains to be attained in his latest discovery, or rather combination, for he does not claim to have been the discoverer of CEDRON, which is the basis of the bitters now offered to the public. This is not a new discovery, but a new combination of the virtues of the native Cedron of Central America, to whom its virtues have been known for more than two hundred years. Armed with it the Indian braves defied to the most deadly malarial and choleraic fevers, the most venomous serpents. It is a belief with them that while there is breath left in the body, the Cedron is potent to cure, no matter what the disease may be.

While Dr. Bull is not prepared to endorse this extravagant pretension, he is, nevertheless, satisfied from a thorough examination of the evidence relating to its virtues, that as a remedy and preventive for all diseases arising from exposure, either to changes of weather and climate, or to the malarial influences, it stands without a rival, and justly deserves the reputation it has so long enjoyed in Central America and the West Indies.

DYSPEPSIA,

and its attendant train of symptoms, it acts more like a charm than a medicine. There is nothing in its composition but what is natural, and on for a moment bear a comparison with it in this disease.

A full account of this wonderful plant may be found in the 11th edition of the U. S. Dispensary, pages 1367 and 1368.

A series of experiments in which Dr. Bull has been for years engaged, has just been brought to a successful termination, and he is now enabled to offer to the public a combination of Cedron with other approved tonics, the whole preserved in the best quality of copper distilled Bourbon whisky, which he is confident has no equal in the world.

He might furnish a volume of certificates, but the public have long since learned to estimate such things at their true value. The safest plan is, for every one to test for himself the virtues of a new medicine. Give the

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 16, 1863.

On the 22d of July last I submitted, through an agent of mine, to the Medical Director of the Department of the Cumberland a sample of my Cedron Bitters for his inspection, and requested if, after analysis he found it meritorious, to sanction and approve its use among our soldiers.

The following is the Medical Director's reply, and also Gen. Rosecrans' permission to ship 500 dozen at once to have it sold to Soldiers.

JOHN BULL. "I am satisfied that Cedron Bitters will do no harm to any one, if taken properly and in moderation. I see no objection to Dr. Bull's being permitted to dispose of it to Soldiers."
